Music on the Plaza Features Disco & Funk

Against the backdrop of sparkling Budd Inlet, Sonic Funk will take you on a trip from Studio 54 to Saturday Night Fever at the free Music on the Plaza, Friday, August 3, 7:00 p.m.

Port of Olympia is proud to partner with the Olympia Downtown Alliance (ODA) for the thirteenth year of Music on the Plaza which is part of ODA's annual Music in the Park summer concert series.

The tiered Port Plaza offers excellent viewing as well as plenty of dance space. Find Port Plaza just north of Percival Landing and south of the Port's Marine Terminal along the east side of Budd Inlet in downtown Olympia. Its landmark is the 43-foot viewing tower. Bring your own chair or blanket.

Music in the Park's award-winning performances began in 1979, featuring local, regional and national talents. The concert series attracts visitors from Thurston, Mason, Grays Harbor, Pierce and King Counties. ODA accepted the production responsibilities for Music in the Park in 1991.
